The Appomattox Broken to Pieces By Heavy Sea Near Milwaukee.

Superior, Wis., Nov. 28.—The steel tugboat Crescent City, of the Pittsburg Steamship fleet, is wrecked on the north shore of Lake Superior. She was driven on the rock within the limits of the city of Duluth this morning. All the members of the crew and captain are safe.

The waves are reported by local fishermen to have been the highest and fiercest for many years. A report has also reached Alpena that an unknown steamer is aground on Presque Isle.

THEIR SUPERSTITION

Caused Chinese of Shanghai to Stop Boycotting of U. S. Goods.

FEARED THAT WRATH

Of the God of Waters Would Be Visited on Them.

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Floating on the wrath of the "God of Waters" would be visited on them, the Chinese of Shanghai and its vicinity have been said, given up the boycotting of American goods.

This change of sentiment was caused by the destruction by water of a large quantity of goods which were stored in the basement of business houses. They had been placed there by the Chinese merchants when the boycott was first instituted. This occurred during the inundation of that city by the Chinese coast during the autumn and tidal wave of a month ago.

The news of the lifting of the boycott and the unusual means which were used to about came here on the steamer Doris yesterday. Among the passengers was C. Ede, who has been in business in China for 22 years. He stated that the Americans had but little to do against the boycott, but that due to the superstition of the Chinese that the Anti-American boycott had been lifted.

ANNUAL SHOE FUND

Collection For Pupils Will Be Held Wednesday.

For a number of years it has been customary during Thanksgiving week to take a collection in the schools of the city for what is known as the shoe fund. This fund is applied by the superintendent to the purchase of shoes for school children whose parents are unable to provide them. Many calls are made at my office every week by these needy children, and I am trying to supply them with shoes in order that they may be enabled to attend our schools. In accordance with the usual custom, therefore, I ask the generous people of Lima to make their contribution to this shoe fund on Wednesday of the present week, the day before Thanksgiving, at which time a collection will be taken in all the public schools of the city, by permission of the board of education.

ERIE LIMITED

Leaves N. Y. a Sterilized Train.

Device Perfected By Chemist Which Is Operated at Jersey City.

DESTROYS ALL GERMS.

Each Car Is Given a Bath of Formaldehyde at End of Run.

Deodorizing Apparatus Has Also Been Devised For Commuter's Cars.

New York, Nov. 28.—The Chicago Limited over the Erie railroad now leaves Jersey City every day a completely and thoroughly sterilized train. A device has been perfected by Chemist Landon of the mechanical department by which all the cars on this vestibuled train are thoroughly sterilized at Jersey City after each round trip between Jersey City and Chicago, a run of about two thousand miles. The daily routine of sterilization began on Wednesday of last week.

Experiments looking to this method of so cleaning cars as to kill all germs and destroy all bad odors have been in progress nearly a month. The Pullman company has investigated the method and has given its consent that all bedding, clothing and hangings in their cars used on these trains, shall be submitted to the sterilizing process, as they are satisfied it kills all disease germs, injures nothing in the cars and makes traveling in such sterilized cars absolutely safe in preventing disease infection.

The process devised by Mr. Landon, consists of the mixing of two chemicals so that a sort of formaldehyde gas bath is given to each car, which is tightly closed for the purpose at the end of each round trip. After the gas has been permitted to do its work, the cars are thoroughly aired, washed and later on dried, so that each car leaves the station guaranteed to be absolutely free from germs of all kinds, including influenza, typhoid, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and other contagious diseases, that any passenger may have left behind him.

This sterilizing process will be used for the present on trains No. 3 and No. 4, and as soon as arrangements can be perfected, will be extended to other through trains on the line. A deodorizing apparatus has also been devised that for the past two weeks has been in use in fifteen Erie club, parlor and commuter's cars. This apparatus is placed under the seats in the cars, out of sight of passengers, and gives off an odorless gas, which combines with the stale, tobacco smoke, or other offensive odors which may accumulate in the cars, and serves to completely nullify them. This treatment has been so effective that it will be extended to all the passenger cars in the Erie service. It is an entirely new process and one that has never before been attempted in railway service. The chemicals used give off no perceptible odor, so that after a night's treatment, the air in the cars is as fresh and clean as that out of doors, a fact which has been noted and commented on by some Erie passengers within the past week or two while experiments have been in progress.

Under the state laws of Texas and Kentucky, the sterilization of railroad cars is compulsory at periods of from three to five days. The sterilization of such laws is now going on in Ohio. The Erie management, believing that such laws will become general, has taken an anticipatory step to securing passenger equipment that will be absolutely healthful as well as comfortable for its patrons.

ANOTHER BLOW

Is Threatened Russia By Workmen.

General Strike Threatened By Seventy Thousand Men Locked Out.

DESTITUTION REIGNS.

Laboring Men Remain at Home Naked Having Pawned Clothes.

Deputation Presented Petition to Premier Asking For Suffrage.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—The workmen's council threatens the country with another general strike to compel the employers of St. Petersburg, who locked out 70,000 men yesterday to reopen their doors. The men had refused to return to work under the old conditions. Delegates have been despatched to cities in the interior to ascertain whether they will support the movement.

Destitution is causing many workmen here to turn against the agitators. During the last strike actual starvation prevailed. The men had neither money to buy food or buy the dead. There were cases of workmen remaining at home naked in bed having pawned every stitch of clothes, for food.

The demonstration was under the auspices of the social democrats. Most of the factories and many shops and offices were closed. The procession marched on Karlsplatz and headed by banners marched to the parliament buildings where a deputation presented a petition for universal suffrage to the president and presidents of both houses. The presidents were sympathetic. They said they recognized that the foremost duty of the legislature was to listen to the cry for an extension of the suffrage which was reaching parliament from all classes of the society.

At the same time they pointed out the difficulties of dealing with so far-reaching a reform in the peculiar political and national conditions existing in Austria and declared that it would be accomplishable only when parliament meets tranquilly without being swayed by outside influence. Premier Baron Gus von Frankenthurn promised soon to lay the intentions of the government in detail before the lower house, he said he was firmly convinced that tranquility and order were the best means of promoting electoral reforms.

HAS BIG TASK

Ito Talks of the Korean Situation.

Japan Embarrassed by Opinions of Irresponsible Press of Other Lands.

KOREA NOT CONQUERED.

Rights of Japanese Fully Defined by Treaty Recently Made.

Will Do Best She Can for People Whom She Is Responsible for.

Seoul, Nov. 28.—Marquis Ito, in summing up the Korean situation, dwelling upon the trust placed by foreign powers in Japan by allowing that government a free hand, the responsibilities of Japan to the natives and the fact that the peninsula would not be an alibi for Japanese spoilsmen, said to the Associated Press today: "Very irresponsible newspapers have greatly embarrassed Japan by writing of Korea as a conquered state, where the Japanese were free to do anything irrespective of the rights of foreigners or the natives, and that the Korean people were not to be considered."

"This has aroused suspicion among the Koreans. 'The Emperor of Japan sent me to arrange a new treaty, to which the Emperor of Korea has agreed, although the proposition met with some opposition from other sources. 'Although Korea was transferred the conduct of her foreign relation to Tokyo, she retains control of her international affairs. 'We accept a great trust and a heavy responsibility and the foreign powers consent to the new arrangements. 'The American government has already announced the withdrawal of its legation and others will follow, but America warns us not to abuse the natives. It is probable that Japan will advise those in control of the Korean departments of the government but they will not be connected with the management. 'The Japanese government or its resident general will deal with questions relating to foreign affairs, but it is not yet known who will be appointed resident general. 'However, those Japanese who expect that the coming of this representative will signalize decisive measures for the exploitation of this country regarding all the rights of the natives, will find themselves mistaken. 'We wish to benefit ourselves, but our greatest return will be derived from insuring the welfare of the people for whose destinies we now stand responsible."

GENERAL NEWS

From the South Part of the City.

Funeral of Mrs. Maggie Johns Held at Grace M. E. Church.

OPERATION NECESSARY

In Restoration of Health of Mrs. Mike Rolly, of South Pine.

More About "Magic Powders" to Make Gasoline Non-Explosive.

The funeral of Mrs. Maggie Johns, wife of Walter Johns, of Solarville, who died Saturday night, was held at Grace M. E. church at 10 o'clock this morning. Rev. C. C. Kennedy officiated.

A large concourse of friends were present to pay their respects to the departed, and members of Estelle, wife of Rebecca, were there in a body, the pall-bearers having been chosen from among them, as the deceased was a prominent member of that organization.

Interment was made in Woodlawn cemetery.

Taken to the Hospital.

The condition of Mrs. Mike Rolly, of South Pine street, is such that she was yesterday removed to the City hospital, where she will undergo an operation.

Nearly Asphyxiated. Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. John Mack, of west Kibby street, came near being rendered unconscious by the fumes of natural gas. The pipes in the cellar were leaking, and detecting the odor, Mrs. Mack went to the dumb-waiter which runs from the cellar to the dining room, and upon reaching the door to the elevator shaft was almost suffocated, the gas fumes being so strong. After windows and doors had been opened that the gas in the rooms and cellar might be removed, an investigation was made and the fault remedied.

New Block Being Occupied.

The handsome new block and flats just completed by the Shappell brothers, just north of Kibby street, presents a very business-like appearance, and by the first or middle of December the door to the store rooms will be occupied, and two of the flats are already occupied.

It is not positively known who will occupy the north business room, but the middle room has been leased by Miss Ella Kunkle, south Lima's white agent-updated milliner.

It is said that a stock of goods, clothing and furnishing goods will be placed in the south room.

"MAGIC POWDERS"

Declared a Fraud by State Fire Marshall Davis.

Not long ago the south side department of the Times-Democrat published a warning to housewives and business men to have nothing to do with the "magic powder" which he claimed would prevent gasoline from exploding and increase its power as a light and heat producer. Even after the warning was read, several persons were talked into purchasing the stuff and were "surprised" to learn that the "powder" was no good, and that it stopped up the filters of their gasoline stoves, just as the writer said it would.

The agent called on the writer and wanted the statement retracted, and even went so far as to give a "demonstration" at the Central fire department in order that he might get some advertising; but the scheme did not work, and failing to find a ready market for his "magic powder" the agent disappeared.

The following evidently did a good business at Columbus, however, and the state fire marshal made an investigation and has issued the following warning in regard to the "magic powder":

The attention of state fire marshal H. D. Davis has been called to the fact that itinerant vendors traveling through the country are selling to the farmers and others certain compounds which are said to be able to make gasoline when they are mixed with it, as harmless as vinegar. The marshals warn the public against all such compounds as not only useless but actually dangerous.

In a bulletin issued Saturday evening, he says: "The danger from gasoline is not from its being an explosive, for it is not, but air containing seven per cent or more of gasoline vapor will explode if it reaches a light or a glowing coal."

"Any compound added to gasoline which would remove this dangerous quality would of necessity destroy its usefulness for lighting."

"The highest authority on fire dangers is the National Fire Protective Association. Representatives of the national scientific societies unite to form this organization, which has chemical and physical laboratories in Chicago. A bulletin issued by W. H. Merrill, Jr., secretary of this body, reads in part:

"The so-called 'magic powders,' 'anti-explosion solutions' and 'safety compounds' for the treatment of the lighter products of petroleum (gasoline and benzine) which are again being exploited in certain sections of the country, recall the original attempt to impose upon the credulity of the public by this means, which occurred something more than twenty years ago."

"The 'antidote' of gasoline can be administered which will remove its hazardous qualities and leave it in condition suitable for the uses for which it is commonly put. Investigations have been made at the laboratories of some of the stuff."

Witchery Compounds. "The tricks which any one can safely do in bringing fire and gasoline together do not seem to be generally understood, and this fact is taken advantage of to the pecuniary benefit of the fakir. The tests indicate that the 'witchery compounds' which he puts into the gasoline generally have all of the characteristics of gasoline itself, and the flash points of gasoline 'treated' with them were similarly low. They do not in any way decrease the hazardous properties of gasoline and may act to produce serious results if applied as directed."

"Samples of these showed flash points ranging below 35 degrees Fahr., and the flash points of gasoline 'treated' with them were similarly low. They do not in any way decrease the hazardous properties of gasoline and may act to produce serious results if applied as directed."

"After the application of these materials to extinguish lighted matches by dropping them into vessels containing the 'treated' oil, to pour the oil while burning from one vessel to another with out disastrous results and to extinguish the flames arising from burning oil in a vessel by closing it with a cover, all of which he could, of course, do quite as effectively before the application of his 'safety' treatment, though none of these facts have any particular bearing on the fact that gasoline and the lighter products of petroleum are highly inflammable and that their vapors and air form an explosive mixture."

The importance of this warning is made the more acute by the fact that merchants, having faith in the representation that the addition of the secret remedy removes danger from gasoline, are moving their tanks from detached buildings into their stores, where they are a menace to property and to life as well.

Tuesday Evening Club. Mrs. W. E. Becker and sister, Mrs. George Strouse, of Fustoria, very pleasantly entertained the Tuesday evening club and their husbands with a few friends at a masquerade party, last evening at the home of the former on State John's avenue. Various games and amusements were indulged in for a time, after which an appetizing lunch was served.

Physicians Prescribe It.

BOY'S NORFOLK JACKET.

Pattern No. 5310. All seams allowed. A natty Norfolk jacket for the young man is here portrayed in Oxford suiting. The design is a popular one; it is geared to the shoulders and is made without under-arm seams and the plait is applied.

The pattern is in 1/2 sizes—5 to 16 years. For a boy of 5 years the jacket requires 2 3/4 yards of material 27 inches wide, or 1 1/2 yards 61 inches wide.

THE OLD WAY AND THE NEW.

Some Important Facts Which May Prove Helpful.

Thirty years ago old-fashioned cod liver oil had to be forced down a patient's throat. Invalids couldn't take it, and children wouldn't. But the doctors prescribed it, and it had to be taken by force. Yet when cod liver oil could be taken into the system it was beneficial, for it has ever been the greatest of all tissue builders and general reconstructors known to medicine.

We are now anxious to have every one know that Vinol is a new form of this very old and valuable remedy, cod liver oil. It contains in a concentrated form all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but by a new process it is made without oil or grease, and it is as delicious to the taste as a fresh orange.

Vinol does not upset the stomach like old fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions; its strengthening and healing properties are remarkable, and both doctors and patients are delighted with its action.

Many wonderful cures right here in Lima have been effected by its use, and we ask all of our customers to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money every time it fails to make rich, red blood, increase the appetite, cure stomach troubles, give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, run down, tired and debilitated, or cure chronic colds, hacking coughs or bronchitis." THE STAGE.

"Radolph and Adolph," Messrs. Broadhurst and Currier's attraction will be seen at the Faurot opera house tomorrow evening. This merry musical farce has been so changed and improved that it is now perfectly new, and practically one long laugh from beginning to end. The story relates the adventures and mishaps of two droll Germans who look exactly alike to their sorrow and the confusion of the rest of the cast. One funny situation follows another, the dialogue is witty and really well written and the company is said to be thoroughly competent. Many specialties are introduced and fine singing and dancing and all new musical numbers are promised. The scenery and dressing are claimed to be of the usual Broadhurst and Currier standard.

Among the new plays announced for this season is one that will certainly excite great interest is "The Redemption of David Gerson," Little Blair Parker's dramatization of the novel of that name, written by the Rev. Charles Frederic Goss, of Cincinnati. The book has had a very large sale and the bold and powerful handling of it's story of sin, sorrow, and repentance, has aroused much discussion. The book is full of possibilities for drama and it is safe to say that Mrs. Parker has made good use of them and we hope will give us another play that will sustain her reputation as the author of "Under Southern Skies" and "Way Down East." "The Redemption of David Gerson" will be presented here next Thursday, on Thanksgiving day, matinee and night.

A Novel Character.

Possibly one of the most unique characters of modern production in the musical field is the introduction of Big Sante, the bombastic, illiterate, slang addicted though good hearted circus proprietor of Nixon & Zimmerman's stupendous musical extravaganza, "Simple Simon Simple," which is booked here with a big cast of well known celebrities. In this the authors have combined the Tom Lewis character of "Little Johnny Jones" with the stockier of "Our New Minister" and the country hill poster of "Lovers' Lane" into one grand, big, far past. Many of his lines evoke long roars of laughter. For instance, while hunting for talent in the gymnastic class at the ladies college, he turns to the professor and remarks "say girl, the genus furnishing outfit looks as though they could deliver the goods." Of course the professor is nonplussed at the vernacular of the show shop and does not understand, which brings forth this stinging retort: "for shades of my baby elephant, wouldn't that wrinkle your brow. I'm a teacher in the public school and can't talk the Queen's English." When he approaches one of the leading lights of the beauty factory as he calls it, and she says: "Sir, you may remember I have a college education," he says: "Oh, if you join my show you will cop out more knowledge in ten minutes than you will learn at school all your life! It's an odd character to say the least and to again quote this quaint cuss "you miss it, if you miss it."

Sells More of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than of All Others Put Together.

Mr. Thomas George, a merchant at Mt. Pleasant, Ontario, says: "I have had the local agency for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy ever since it was introduced into Canada, and I sell as much of it as I do of all other lines I have on my shelves put together. Of the many dozens sold under guarantee, I have not had one bottle returned. I can personally recommend this medicine as I have used it myself and given it to my children, and always with the best results." For sale by all druggists.

BOOZE OR MEDICINE?

Which will you have? If a man is suffering from one of the dangers of society, he will find it well to ask for you to know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only remedy advertised for such malady which is absolutely free from intoxicating liquors and all other harmful agents. The good you feel from its use is not the discovery of a liberation from a painful disease, from which the system has into a worse condition than before. It may be a little slow in manifesting its healing and invigorating action, but its results are none the less positive and best of all, they are lasting. It's an honest medicine and a beverage.

"I have been taking your medicine for the last three weeks and in the 12th day feeling stronger," writes Mrs. South Kim, of 603 East Wood street, Albany, New York. "I have been having very poor health all winter. I do not sleep at night and I feel as if I had a cold and I had cold and numb spells in my heart and my head and my feet. I have had one child since first taking your medicine. If I continue with your treatment and a positive I will be cured."

Every suffering woman in this land should write to Dr. Pierce and learn how certainly he can help her to health and strength. It costs nothing to write and receive entirely free the advice of one of the most experienced physicians in this country. His great thousand-page book the Common Sense Medical Adviser, in stiff paper covers, will be sent free for one-cent stamps the bare cost of mailing, or send 31 stamps for cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

These ORIGINAL Little Dr. Pierce's Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago, have been much imitated, but never equalled. They're made of purely vegetable, concentrated and refined medicinal principles, expelled from nature, free from poisons and chemicals. They specially relieve and cure indigestion, flatulence, constipation, liver and bowels and their attendant distressful ailments. One or two a laxative, three or four a cathartic.

Don't allow the dealer to insult your intelligence by offering his own remedy to you instead of this well-known preparation of Dr. Pierce.

THE WEATHER.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—For

Wednesday, fair, except snow
or rain in north portion, colder.
The fits some people throw when they get away from the pie counter
are indescribable.
FROM THE COMMONER
Princess Louise of Saxony is said
to owe $900,000. She might issue
bonds to that amount and begin negotiations with a bond syndicate organization among a lot of life insurance presidents.
To be consistent some earnest administration supporter should suggest
the issue of bonds to secure the services
of some eminent American politicians
to teach the Russian people self-government.
When the price of coal goes up the excuses for the increase are numerous—shortage of cars, shortage of coal, shortage of miners. The fact that people are often short of coal
money seems never to cut any figure.
It will be noted that no one is wasting time asking the insurance company presidents where they got it.
Everybody knows. What every body wants to know is when the life insurance presidents are to be jarred
loose.
The supreme court has decided that a stockholder has a right to inspect the books of his company. Perhaps,
but what can he expect to find in books
that are doctored up until they per-
plex a government expert?
The eminent gentlemen who insist that they can make the people believe that they are "standing by the president" while opposing his rate
regulation policy have very little conception of the mental perception of the people.
The packers' claim that Commissioner Garfield promised them immunity in return for all the facts about his business is a joke and a very bad joke. The packers overdid
the business when they cooked up
those figures.
SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS.
Whenever the "Governor" who edits
the Republican-Gazette reads or hears of a republican who is in danger of losing a political position, he froths, runs at the mouth, and suffers
mental torture.
He had an attack of that kind this morning, and he used two columns
of space to recover from his epilepsy.
The answer to his colic will be brief,
and largely interrogatory.
Chief of Police Mills is brought in to the ring, and touted as the man who would do his duty if called on by the mayor.
Rigmaster Campbell introduces that gentleman in the following words:
"The facts are that Mayor Robb
through his 'easy Theodore,' 'wide open town' policy carried over and perpetuated from the preceding administration, notwithstanding that his promise to screw down the lid was given, is directly responsible for the condition of affairs existing today, and which have existed all through his administration. At any time during the two and one half years he has been mayor an order from him to close up the "bottle" man out the dive, and "hotfoot" the crooks out of town would have been obeyed with alacrity. The chief of police is authoritative to the mayor and in the heart

of public service, and he and his force naturally strive to do that which will
most surely meet with the approval
of their superiors."
We ask Chief Mills if he and his police force have not been told by Mayor Robb many times to close the gambling houses?
We ask Chief Mills, if every Saturday night since Mayor Robb has been in office, he and his force have not been told to enforce the Sunday closing law?
Then, we ask Chief Mills if he has done any of these things or allowed
his men to do them?
We ask him if the mayor has not suggested to him often that he believed such things did exist in Lima,
and if he did not reply that they did,
but he—the great chief of police of Lima, could not get any proof against the persons implicated?
We ask Chief Mills if he is not a member of the Police Protective Association of Ohio, and if it is not a tenet of that organization, that it will see that no police officer loses his position?
Such an organization exists, and it has funds, and a salaried lawyer to protect its members, and we have heard the boast made that under the civil service rules no policeman could be fired.
If Chief Mills wants to meet the approval of his superiors and place himself right with the public he will answer the above questions.

HELPING HAND
Of the Citizens Is Petitioned For
By the Promoters and Members of the Merchants'
Band.
COMMITTEE SENT OUT
To Secure Signatures For Honorary Members of the Organization.
They Desire to Improve the Band and Make it
Permanent.
The promoters and members of the Lima Merchants' band are determined to make that organization a permanent one and one that as a musical organization, will be a credit to the city of Lima. With this end in view and with no individual or selfish motives actuating them, some of the most enthusiastic members have worked out a plan to call upon the citizens to lend them a helping hand. They have adopted the plan that is in vogue
in many other cities, from places the size of Canton to those like Cincinnati—
that of taking honorary members into the organization in order to gain their support. The band, as it now is, is the best the city ever had
and the plan to still further improve
and make it a permanent organization should meet with the hearty approval and co-operation of the citizens generally.
The following petition, headed by W.
F. Numan, who contributed $10 to the good cause, is now being circulated
by members of the band:
"Lima, O., November 28, 1905.
To the Citizens of Lima:
"It is our desire to give Lima one
of the best bands in the state of Ohio.
We have recently organized and have sufficient musical talent to assure the people that such an organization
can be given to Lima. It is, however, necessary to ask for assistance, and
our plan, which has been successful
in other cities, is that three hundred of Lima's Citizens become honorary members of the Lima Merchants'
band, minimum membership fee, to be $5 per year. There is nothing that so well advertises a town as an up-to-date, first class band.
We agree to give not less than two high class complimentary concerts a year to the honorary members.
Hoping that the citizens of Lima will appreciate what an organization
of this kind means to a town, by giving us their hearty co-operation, we remain

THE RAILWAYS
New Superintendent for
the C. H. & D.
Sweeney Succeeds R. F.
White on the Southern Ends.
WHITE IS PROMOTED
To Other Duties But No Announcement Has Been Made.
General News Along the Lines and Gossip of
the Shop.
Bulletins have been posted at various offices of the C. H. & D. of here today announcing the appointment of Sweeney at once of Mr. T. A. Sweeney, formerly superintendent of the Dayton & Wellston division, to superintend the North and South divisions of the main line of the C. H. &
D. and from Cincinnati to Dayton and Dayton to Lima, with auxiliary branches.
Mr. Sweeney is an old C. H. & D.
man and came up from the ranks, his promotion being the result of careful labors in his chosen field. He succeeds Mr. R. F. White, temporarily named only a short time ago, and who has been assigned to other duties.
Want More Wages.
Cleveland, Nov. 28.—The annual conference between the shop committee and the railroad officials on the wage scale for all the union machinists in the Ashland, Cleveland and Elkhart shops of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad will be held tomorrow in this city. The men are receiving 25, 27 and 29 cents an hour. They will demand at the conference a scale advance of two cents an hour, with certain purely local concessions at the different shops.
"We have always been treated with perfect fairness by the railroad company," said Business Agent Linnett,
of the union machinists, last night,
"and we have no reason to believe
that there will be a strike on this account. However, we are firm in our demand for a raise."
There are about 160 men involved in the demand for more pay.
Ground Up Money.
A mail sack, hung upon the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne and Chicago railway
mail crane, at Dunkirk, Monday night,
to be taken aboard No. 11, the high scheduled mail train, due at Dunkirk
at 7:15 p. m., in some manner bounded from the catcher and was thrown
under the wheels, says the Dunkirk Standard.
The sack, along with the home mail,
contained also the transfer mail from both the north and south which arrives at 4:30 over the Toledo and Ohio
Central, and in all several hundred letters were partially or wholly destroyed. The Woodruff National Bank had just mailed out $2,250 worth of checks and were unable to find any trace of them in running through the fragments at the postoffice. There was also a beautiful pink waist pattern among the wreckage that looked as though it had passed through a corn shredder. Postmaster John Banghman, however, carefully went through the letters and mailed all
that was possible to their destination
and forwarded the rest to the division
superintendent.
LIMITED CARS
In the Shops at Cincinnati May Be Ready Next Week.
The three handsome $11,500 limited
cars to be used in the through service on the Ft. Wayne, Van Wert & Lima, are now being completed in the big car shops at Cincinnati. Officials of the road who a fortnight ago visited
the shops and looked at the cars
found them already for the trucks.
They were contracted to be delivered
on December 1st, but it is not expected they will be finished before the latter part of next week, as the electrical equipment caused a delay.
When these cars reach here, the new through Ft. Wayne to Lima fast line will be inaugurated on a schedule of two hours flat.
NOT UNTIL SPRING
Will Through Toledo & Dayton Service Be Started.
The financial editor of the Cleveland
Leader who is very close to the Mandelbaum-Pomeroy crowd of traction
magnates has the following to say concerning through service between Toledo & Dayton:
"Arrangements are being made between the interests behind the Western
Ohio and the Toledo, Bowling Green & Southern for the running of through cars between Toledo and Dayton. A statement to the effect that this would become operative December 1st, is misleading since the new line between Lima and Findlay,
which forms one of the important
links in the new route, will not be ready by that time. It is assured,
however, that a working arrangement
is rapidly being effected.
It is not expected at present that the new line between Lima and Findlay,
being a part of the Western Ohio
road, will be ready for operation before the first of January. The finishing touches are now being put on the new line.
The operators of this road are moving cautiously. They do not wish to take any risks. While the new line
is being built strong there is a question, while the frost is still in the ground, that some upheaval in the track may be new and untold. This construction will be new and untold and operation of it would be started in the treacherous portions of the winter. It is the intention, therefore, not to try any through car line operation until spring when the frost is out of the ground and the road may run its high speed cars with perfect safety. The track being used through the summer months will be sufficiently tampered by the return of winter to permit the continuance of the service. The operators of the road are, therefore, going to wait for a couple of months, even after the new line is completed, before putting on the through service.

It is the expectation when this line
has been completed, to handle both passengers and freight at a high rate
of speed, and the through equipment
is adapted to both uses.
White's New Portfolio.
Supt. D. F. White who is relieved on the Lima, Dayton and Dayton-Cincinnati divisions by the appointment of Sweeney today, is expected to return to his former duties as engineer of maintenance of way on the

G. W. Poast, a prominent Putnam

The loss is estimated at more than

surance in the Allen County Mutual.

parsonage, performed the marriage

of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Richardson,
of St. Marys, and Mr. Roy C. Howell,
a traveling man, of Cleveland.
Manager C. E. Willis, of the St.
Marys rink, and a former Lima man,
has opened a new rink at Celina.
Twenty-one members of the Pocahontas team of this city, went to St.
Marys, last Friday night, to put the worst of the floor for the benefit of the members of the Minnequa Council.
Four candidates were made acquainted with the customs of the degree of Pocahontas. The work was immen-sely enjoyed by all present, after which instructions were given in drill work
and a social hour spent in ice cream
and cake were served.
Mr. and Mrs. Barney W. Layton left yesterday for Washington, D. C., where Mr. Layton takes up his duties
so long as he is popularly discharged as assistant sergeant-at-arms of the U. S.
senate. Mr. Layton through his position is probably as well posted a man
of public affairs as any one in the country, and personally acquainted with every member of the two houses.
Of the city today, looking more to the next Monday, he has met every man who has not as yet been sworn in.
Mr. W. H. Sloan, for many years with the old C. H. & D. but of late years in the south, returned to his first love and received the appointment, effective at once as master mechanic of the shops at Dayton.
Mr. Thomas W. Garvin, representative of the Ohio state board of commerce,
will be in the city today, looking to the
interesting of the leading business men
in the work of that organization.
There are now 1,600 members, chiefly from the large cities. The object of the board is two fold. First to prepare reform legislation that is needed. A committee is appointed to draft needed measures. Their work is submitted to the members with the request that each one make whatever suggestions or criticisms he deems expedient and at a meeting held in December each year, there is general discussion of all measures submitted. They are then voted on, and a majority is necessary to allow of their presentation to the legislature.
The other section of the association's work is to secure the passage of the proposed legislation. This is not done by lobbying, but through the influence of the press, and pungent pamphlets sent widely through the state, thus creating a public sentiment that the general assembly
would not dare ignore.
D. J. Cable, W. L. Parmenter, A. L.
White, D. C. Dunn and F. E. Harman
are members of the association, and it is hoped many other business men
will identify themselves with its good work.
Several important measures relative to taxation, and corporations and improving labor laws, are now under consideration by the board's committees.

CITY AFFAIRS
New Officials Go In on January First.
Republicans Will Retain
Control of the City Council,
WITH FOUR MEMBERS
While the Democrats Will Have Three of the New Members.
Contract For the Contagion
Hospital Awarded to
F. W. Wood.
At the expiration of another month
there will be quite a change inaugurated in the official family of the city of Lima. The city council will be reorganized with five new and three old members, an entirely new board of public service will step into office, a new city treasurer will take charge of the city's finances, Mayor Robb will begin his second term in office and then will follow the appointment of a number of under officials in the city
civil engineer's department, in the water works department and in other branches of the department of public service. Nearly all of the appointments to be made are in the control
of the board of public service.
The new city council will be in the control of the republicans, the representatives of that political party having a majority of one member in the city's legislative body. The three hold-over members—Larimer, Odell and Bowser—are republicans, and the republicans elected one republican—
Mr. Davidson—from the Fourth ward at the recent election. This will give the republicans four members of the council while the democrats will have only three—Mr. Collins, member from the Second ward, and Messrs. Thomas Greenland and W. B. Craig, democratic members at large.
The successor to George Newson,
as president of the council will be Daniel Cramer, of the south side. Mr.
Cramer is a democrat but the president of the council has no vote except in the event of a tie vote between the other members of the body.
The board of public service has awarded the contract for the construction of the proposed contagion hospital to Contractor F. W. Wood, whose bid was the lowest of the several that were submitted to the board last Friday. Mr. Wood has not filed his formal acceptance of the contract but there is no doubt about his intention of doing so and of his beginning work
on the new institution in the near future.
Work on the paving of south Main street, between the right of way of the C. H. & D. railroad company and that of the C. H. & D., is progressing steadily and if weather conditions permit, the improvement will soon be completed. It will make a great improvement in the condition of the crossings over the many railroad tracks as well as that of the street
itself and will be of great value to the Lima Locomotive and Machine Co.,
as well as to the general public.

QUEER OLD PAGEANT.
SOME ANCIENT FESTIVALS AND THEIR STRANGE CEREMONIES.
The Peculiar One That Commemorates
the Flight into Egypt—Twelfth
Day and Plow Monday—Celebrations in England.
England has had her miracle play,
from very early times, and many of them, intended to impress Scriptural truths on the minds of the ignorant populace, were no doubt absurd and irreverent enough to our modern ideas
but none of them, one thinks, can have equaled in grossness the Festival of the Ass, which was instituted by the Patriarch Theophilus of Constantinople
in commemoration of the flight into Egypt.
Every year on Jan. 14 an ass, of which a beautiful girl with a baby in her arms was seated, after having been led in solemn procession through the city, was taken into the church and placed near the high altar while the service was performed; but instead of giving the usual responses the people
all brayed as loudly as they could. A hymn in praise of the ass was also sung, the congregation joining as loudly as they could in the bee law choros.
This hymn is written in a strange mixture of French and mediæval Latin
and consists of nine verses and a chorus.
It has been translated, and we quote three of the verses so as to give
some idea of its absurdity:
From the country of the east
Came this strong and handsome beast,
This ass, ass, beyond compare,
Heavy loads and packs to bear.
Now, seigneur ass, a noble bray;
Thy beautiful mouth at large display.
Abundant food our haylofts yield,
And cars abundant load the field.
Hie haw! Hie haw! Hie haw!
True it is his pace is slow
Till he feels the golden blow,
Till he feels the urging gad,
On his hinder part bestowed.
Now, seigneur ass, etc.
With your belly full of grain,
Bray, most honored ass, arrear!
Bray out loudly, bray again;
Never mind the old man,
Without ceasing bray again.
Arrear! Arrear! Arrear! Arrear!
Hie haw! Hie haw! Hie haw!
The due observance of many of the old ceremonies was often made the occasion if not for what could, strictly speaking, be called a pageant, yet at least for a festive gathering of the whole neighborhood. The first known mention of the Dunmow fitch of bacon
given to two people who would make oath that they had been married a year and a day and had never repeated
their choice, never had a quarrel and,
if free to be married again, would choose the same person, appears in Chaucer, where it is spoken of in the prologue to the "Wife of Bath's Tale"
as of an already well known institution.
There are many other old English
observances partaking of the nature of a kind of rude, rustic pageant, which
with the decay of farming seem to be quite dying out. Such are the Twelfth day celebrations of Herefordshire, Gloucestershire and the eastern counties and the Festival of Plow Monday
that was formerly held the first day
that plowing was to recommence after
the Christmas holidays.
Plow Monday was always the first Monday after Twelfth day and is a very ancient festival. Before the reformation the plowmen used to go
from house to house collecting money
to purchase candles to burn before certain of the statues in the churches with a view to obtaining a blessing on their labors. The reformation, we are told,
put out the lights, but could not extinguish the festival. The plowmen
still put on their clean white shirts
over their jackets and bedizened themselves and their plows with ribbons,
as they had formerly done, but now,
instead of buying plow lights, as they were called, they purchased beer and ended the day in riotous conviviality
at the public house.
A Lincolnshire man, who says that he has himself blown the horn at many of these rustic celebrations, tells us how there the plow is decorated and
the plowmen, the thrashers, the reapers and the carters gathered from many a hamlet round, attired either in clean smock frocks or in grotesque
garb, go about to the various houses
of the locality singing and dancing and not forgetting to shake in a suggestive
manner the money box, which is usually carried by a man called Bessy,
disguised with long ringlets and petticoats over his worsted stockings and culdrys.—Macmillan's Magazine.
Nature.
There are no genuine native words
in the Japanese language to correspond with our words "nature" and "art."
Professor Basil Hall Chamberlain has scored of years of professor of Japanese
in the Imperial university at Tokyo,
regards the absence of the word "art"
as a weakness. He thinks the absence of a word for "nature" may be quite the opposite. "Nature" he regards as a Proteus, at times a deistic synonym or epithet for the Creator, at other times the beings or things created, or
the universe with man left out, or the impulses of man as opposed to his conscious acts, or that which is reasonable
and proper, or, again, with theologians
exactly the opposite. "In short," says
the professor, "the word 'nature' stands
for nothing in particular, impossible
to define and serving only as a will-o'-
the-wisp to mislead metaphysically
minded persons."—Impressions Quar-

TWINS OR ONE

Single Building Is Question Before Board.

New Ward Structure For West End Now Being Considered.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Discuss a New Bond Issue to Raise Twenty Thousand.

School Closes December 22^d For the Holiday Vacation.

In addition to a few matters of routine, such as the regular allotment of cash on current bills, almost the entire meeting of the Board of Education last evening was devoted to a discussion of another bond issue, the first of a series of three which are planned to secure sufficient cash for the erection of a ward building on the west building site.

This question of better accommodations for the school youth in the central western district is an important one, and is being carefully considered. There are two factions in the board with two separate and distinct ideas. One of these favors the idea of the Rensselaer village plan, and would make a cottage group out of buildings on the west site; the other, with equal argument and this faction supported by the superintendent of schools, is pushing the desire for a one-story structure, to be built as a continuation of the present high school building on the north side and a ward building of sixteen rooms. This faction is in the minority, but in case of the funds required, it is felt that no building or part of building can be erected which would cost less favorably than the handsome high school, at or near the amount of money which the board can raise by a bond issue, even though the proposed sixteen room structure be built in sections, a third next year, a third the following year, and a completed one the third the next year.

No official action has as yet been taken, and it is well for taxpayers and parents to think over what they deem proper in this matter, and express themselves freely. It will be the city's money that will erect the new building whatever it is.

Mr. Croys favors strongly the idea of the "cottage plan" found so successful for the insane, and therefore recommended by him for school youth. He would have an eight room building on either corner of North and Belmont, and North and Pierce, building the one the coming year; the other the following year. Stolzenbach, however, and possibly Chubbuck favor the idea of a one-story building, and the building and repair committee favor the modern sixteen room structure to be built on the installment plan, and which would permit of central heating from the present high school plant. He does not believe the grouping of several structures on various lots of the beautiful school campus will be any more in taste, than a building not so handsome of character as the high school structure, but of the same outward brick and concrete and simply, but substantially, constructed.

On motion of Mr. Stolzenbach last night, an invitation was extended to the architects of the state for plans for two ward buildings of eight rooms, the exceeding $25,000 in cost.

To make this sum the board will authorize a bond issue to the extent of two mills, which will bring in about $1,000 each year. This matter should be seriously considered by the taxpayers who should give the board their advice. The building or buildings are needed, and there are sixteen graded schools ready to occupy them when completed, which are now stored in basements, business blocks in the Annex and over in the east and west Spring street buildings.

STILL INCREASING

Is the Attendance in the Public Schools of Lima.

By the report of Supt. Davison last night it is shown that the attendance in the public schools is still on the increase. There are now enrolled 2,000 boys; 2,136 girls, a total of 4,136, an increase over last month of 81 new faces. One of the greatest drawbacks to educational results just now is the amount of hardship prevalent over the city. Last month there were 311 cases of hardship as against 211 in October and 112 in September. The average daily attendance in November has been 3,325 as against 3,669 in the previous month, but much of this has been caused by diphtheria and other quarantine diseases.

Supt. Davison reported much profit and pleasure resulting from the trip of the school teachers to Dayton and Ft. Wayne, two weeks ago, and believed the idea was forthcoming in good results to both teachers and pupils.

School Closes Dec. 22.

The superintendent also announced the gloomy tidings to the youth of schooldom that the holiday vacation will start on the close of work Friday, December 22nd and continue for four days. The usual Thanksgiving show fund collection will be taken up on Wednesday of this week (tomorrow) and this popular donation party should be made a generous one by parents, as the outlook shows it will be heavily drawn upon during the year.

Gas to Be Used.

Mr. Stolzenbach made a motion which was carried that gas be piped into all buildings of the schools where stoves are still used, and that the stoves be fitted with the new combination grates, permitting the use of coal when necessary. Clerk Herritt was empowered to sign application blanks for the use of gas wherever needed.

Introduce Testimony to Secure Divorce.

Chief of Police Could Not State Defendant Immoral.

ONE DECREE GRANTED

Leighton's Father-in-Law Goes on His Bond For Appeal.

Many Appeal Cases Being Filed in the Upper Courts.

There was another and the third renewal of the White vs. White divorce case, started Saturday, carried over until yesterday, and renewed again today in the hope of a husband being divorced from his wife. Attorney Russell Armstrong, for the plaintiff, introduced three witnesses including Chief of Police Walter S. Mills, and by these witnesses hoped to prove that the woman was immoral as alleged. The chief claimed she had never been among the unfortunates of the lat cave; that he had never known her as a "character," or that she had never to his knowledge been before the mayor for disorderly or drunkenness.

The defendant herself took the stand again and when asked if it were not true that she had a high temper she said: "Law, no man; I see got no temper at all," the court refused to take action and stated he had no desire to hear more of the case but would consider it.

IMPOSTER AT WORK

Soliciting Provisions From Some of the Local Grocers

UNDER THE PRETENSE

That She Is a Representative of the Dorcas Society on Charity Bent.

The ladies of the Dorcas society made a second complaint yesterday concerning the operations of some imposter who has been canvassing the city, obtaining groceries under the pretense that she was a representative of the Dorcas society, and that she was obtaining donations of groceries to be used by the society in giving a supper to the poor of the city on Thanksgiving day. A notice of the operations of this imposter was published by the officers of the Dorcas society last week but notwithstanding this fact, they learned that the canvassing was continuing and that some groceries had been contributed to the unknown woman by a local grocer yesterday.

Mrs. Jas. Porter and Mrs. Elmer Tuttle request that in the event of the appearance of any solicitor, that they be notified and the arrest of such solicitor be made at once.

THE JEWELRY STOCK

Of Mr. Fox Will Be Sold at Special Sale in Next Thirty Days.

HIS BUSINESS PLANS

Demand That He Reach Philadelphia by First of the Year.

The Times-Democrat has learned that the deal which was to have transferred the well known jewelry store of Adolph Fox to outside parties has fallen through. Knowing that Mr. Fox had announced his intention of going into business in Philadelphia, a Times-Democrat man interview him yesterday.

"Is it true, Mr. Fox, that the party to whom you had practically sold your store has backed out?" he was asked.

"It is true," he replied, "and a great disappointment to me. I have made every arrangement to leave Lima and enter business in the City of Brotherly Love. The gentleman with whom I had been negotiating had even lived up to our contract. Suddenly I received word that he had backed out."

"What are your future plans now?" Mr. Fox was asked.

"I must dispose of my stock within the next thirty days, because I have made arrangements with a firm in the East which I can't break. I won't have any difficulty in selling the goods right here in Lima. The stock is undoubtedly the largest, finest and best selected in this part of the state."

"Have you made definite arrangements as to when and how are you going to close the stock?"

"I would rather not answer that question just now. But very shortly I will make an important announcement in the Times-Democrat. As you can imagine it will be of great interest to buyers of Christmas gifts and lovers of beautiful things in general."

Mr. Fox has been in the jewelry business here for a number of years and has earned an enviable reputation as a progressive merchant and good citizen. His establishment, on north Main street, is filled with the best and most desirable goods in his line.

In the Glamour of the Sea

By Ina Wright Hanson

Copyright, 1905, by Ina Wright Hanson

"It has been a pleasant summer, hasn't it?" asked the man, settling back more comfortably against a low seat.

"The pleasantest I ever have spent," the girl acknowledged, smoothing a ruffle on her red parasol.

"And tomorrow it ends?"

"Tomorrow is the first day of—why, count, it ended a month ago, the summer, and we did not know it!"

"We did not know it?" he mused, "but we know it now."

The breakers were coming in. Jeanette watched them going to their death against Black Point and the beauty of their immediate transformation into feathery spray, but her mind was reviewing the months of this man's companionship. Never had another man so compelled her admiration and stimulated so delightfully her mental faculties. In truth the count's most powerful magnet was her realization that in his mind were wonderful treasures which as yet she had not reached.

She had but to start on a train of thought, and he would follow it eagerly to its very end, merrily or whimsically or with affecting pathos, according as his mood might be. How could she ever weary of a friend like him? Then he was so courtly and withal so handsome; and he was of princely birth. What girl could resist such manifold attractions? But through all the happy hours in his company one thought continually annoyed her, and the name of the thought was Jim.

She and Jim were engaged, and she had postponed the marriage day—after she had met the count. Jim had spent the summer in a hot little inland town, where his work was. She had forbidden him to join her till she should bid him come, and Jim, because his love for her was so unwisely great, had stayed away. Jeanette turned impatiently from Black Point and smiled at the count.

"There are others," she said.

"Other what?" he asked blankly. Perhaps his mind had been wandering too.

"Other seasons. There are people who live here in the winter, and they say the ocean is magnificent in wild weather." Her tone was seductively inviting.

"I know, but at Christmas time there is to be a wedding in Paris, and I must be there."

"Weddings don't last long." She sifted some sand through her fingers.

"But after the wedding sometimes lasts a very long time, and the bride—she is very lovely, mademoiselle—is to stay in Paris after the wedding."

"Oh, I see! How stupid I have been! You are to be the bridegroom. Do let me congratulate you." Her little trill of laughter sounded almost sincere.

The count sighed. "She is lovely, but not so fair as you, little maid, who are all of the sea. That kelp floating yonder is the brown of your hair; the water out there beyond the breakers is the blue of your eyes; the white spray is your sweet throat, Jeanette, Jeanette!"

Jeanette's slender hands trembled as she raised the red parasol. There was no occasion for its shade—the sun was not looking their way—so she closed it and laid it down again. Then she answered quietly:

"The sea has moods, count. Today it is blue, which means truth and peace; tomorrow it may be gray and furious with whitecaps. Today it may bring you a message from Paris delicately scented; tomorrow it may catch your best beloved in its arms and hold her till she is dead, dead, dead!"

"You have its beauty, sweet girl, but not its treachery."

Again came the thought whose name was Jim, and Jeanette flushed.

"My wedding day was to have been a month ago, but I—postponed it. Jim is a good man, too," she added loyally.

"Allow me to wish you unbounded joy," the count said coldly.

"I fear it is a futile wish," she answered sadly, "but I thank you."

"What a mess of human affairs fate is, Jeanette!" he broke out suddenly. "Why couldn't we have been near of the passenger. The man was just getting busy when he heard two short whistles, the signal for his recall, and went back to his train. As a matter of fact, those two whistles were the engineer's answer to the signal of the conductor, who had just pulled the bell rope, but the fugitive thought them the answer to his own signals, and so went back to the train. A few minutes later they had a rear end collision there. Then they made a change in that signal; for the brake man ahead.

"When the train is starting," he continued, "the answer to a signal from the conductor to back up is three short whistles."

"Four short whistles (— — —) is a call from the engineer for the display of signals when he is approaching a tower or any place where he may expect to see either a semaphore or a hand signal, and may not find it waiting for him."

"When a train is carrying signals for a following section—you know that when there is heavy travel trains run in sections, really separate trains several minutes apart—a green flag is shown on the front of the engine as a notification to switchmen and others that another train is coming on the right of way of the first train, and the engineer calls attention to the flag at important points by whistling one long and two short blasts (— — —)."

"You are familiar enough, of course, with the highway signal, whistles on approaching a crossing (— — —), two long and two short, and on approaching a station, a function or such another point on the road there is the familiar one long toll (— — —)."

"When the engineer sees danger ahead he gives ten short and sharp signals (— — —) to call the attention of the train crew to the necessity for being alert and ready for any emergency. The fire alarm, as I told you, is one long and three short blasts when passing a section foreman or any one else whose duty it may be to watch the road."

"Ever watch a brakeman on a freight train making up a train in the yard? Ever notice how he does it all with a sweep of his arm, a twisting of his fingers, and how the train stops, starts or moves ahead fast or slow, just as he wiggles those fingers? He never opens his mouth to shout to the engineer or anything like that; just does it all by merely moving his arm, hand and fingers, and yet he has perfect control of the train all the time. It is really wonderful. And it is all done with a comparatively few signals at that."

"A vertical signal means 'Go ahead,' a motion at right angles to the track is 'Stop.' Waving the hand in a small circle means 'Back up,' a large circle at arm's length is 'Train parted.' When coupling up a slow, steady circle is used—you've seen it many a time and you may have noticed that the momentum of the train increases or decreases according to the amount of energy that enters into the signal. In other words, a busy signal is given quickly and impatiently; a slow and cautious approach signal is shown in slow and easy movements of the fingers and hands. Much is expressed in the way the signal is given. There are lots of little signals which the men use and find good, but which the railroads that issue lists of signals to their men do not officially recognize."

"And there are many signals for the bell cord, which is no longer a bell cord, for we use a whistle now in our engines. One pull of the cord when the train is standing means 'Apply brakes,' and the engineer applies them, you bet. Two pulls when starting mean 'Release brakes,' two when running mean 'Stop at once,' and when the engineer gets that the passengers stand on their heads most generally, although the engineer can do anything he cares to with the air brake. Three pulls when the train is running mean 'Stop at the next station,' four when running stand for 'Reduce speed,' four pulls when standing are 'Call in flagman,' five pulls mean 'Increase steam heat' when the train is not warm enough in the winter, and six mean 'Increase speed.' It is all easy when you understand it. Steamboat men have their code of whistle signals, too, and can tell just as well as if they were speaking what the skippers of other boats intend to do or what sort of boats they have near them in a fog. For instance, a tug with a tow of barges can whistle so that every skipper within hearing distance will understand what the tug is, where it is and where it is going and will watch out for it accordingly. It is really wonderful the manner in which whistles can be made to talk."—Providence Journal.

Here is a contemporary picture of Tallentyre written by Chaplain George R. Cleigh: "A fat head, covered with a mass of perfectly white hair, which, combed down over the forehead, gave to the appearance of being never naturally low and contradicted the received theories which make a lofty brow and oval crown the outward and visible signs of genius. His eyes, small, black and sunken in their sockets, were surrounded by bushy eyebrows, perfectly black and straight. A nose short and retreating, a complexion ashly pale rather than sallow and chin strongly marked made up a countenance which in repose was well nigh repulsive. At intervals when some brilliant or cynical thought struck him it would light up, but these intervals occurred rarely, because in society he was habitually little, taking no part and apparently little interest in the general conversation which went on around him. If, however, anything was said which appeared to him to present an opening for a clever or cutting remark he rarely failed to take advantage of it, and the effect on the company was telling. He never ate except once in the twenty-four hours, and his meal was to consequence enormous."

THE SHORT COAT MAINTAINS ITS VOGUE.

In spite of the number of long-coated suits that many exclusive houses are displaying, the little short-coated design maintains all of its vogue. The one shown is in a soft shade of chamois broadcloth, with velvet of a deeper tint. The coat is one of those loose Bron affairs, with a flat open neck edged with velvet overlaid with Irish crochet. Plain velvet with just a touch of copper embroidery forms a shallow vest in front; and the edge of the loose coat is decorated with a design in velvet all around. The sleeve is fashionably full throughout, with the tapering line below the elbow that is modish; and the cuff strapped with velvet and having a flash of Irish crochet. The skirt has a closely fitted top, flared over the hips; and a deep double box-plaited flounce is applied above the knee, the upper skirt laid in fancy tucks, velvet trimmed, over the flounce. That new length in dressy skirts is displayed, the front well touching the floor, and the sides and back lying for some four or more inches.

RAILROAD WHISTLES

THE WAY THEY TALK TO THOSE WHO UNDERSTAND THEM.

Language that has been built up from long years of experience, signals with the bell and with a group of the arms.

Passing a gang of section hands at the station, the engineer on the express blew a long blast, followed by three short whistles. The effect on the men, who were doing some minor work, was almost magical. The engineer gave some quick, sharp orders, and the men jumped for the hand car, which they had brought their tools and themselves, and before the express was out of sight the gang was pumping its way down the track in the direction from which the train had just come.

There must have been something of the matter, remarked one of the group of men in the rear of the train whose attention had been attracted by the whistles, in which the men dropped their tools.

"Yes," said his seat companion, "a fire down the road. The engineer saw somewhere back there and told the gang about it with that whistle as he passed. He has a regular code of whistles that conveys almost any information necessary to give when running. Now, that signal he just gave means, one long and three short whistles, is a fire alarm anywhere. He might be running a switcher in a yard and discover a fire there. He would give that signal, and all the available men would understand it and would go to work to put that fire out. He might be running an express and, while passing through a town might discover a building on fire at night. He would wake up every railroad man within hearing by the sound of the whistle he would whistle. There is something sharp, peremptory, startling, about that whistle signal.

"The engineers of the elevated in New York sometimes see fires as they run the third story windows of houses and arouse the neighborhood with their blasts. The fire back on the road might be quite a large one or it might be a small one, but if the engineer thought it needed attention he would give the next trackman he saw of it, and that man would go after it. Now do I know all this? I used to work on the road and know the signals, as every railroad man does."

"Just then the conductor, who had made his way to the rear of the car, reached for the bell rope and pulled it four times. From the engine whistle came two short blasts. Within the next few minutes the party noticed that the train was running more slowly than it had been.

"That was a signal to reduce speed," said the ex-railroad man. "The conductor is jointly responsible with the engineer for the safety of the train. He is evidently thought the engineer was trying to make up too much lost time. So he gave him four pulls, which mean 'reduce speed,' and the engineer gave him two short whistles, which mean 'All Right,' although in this case they probably stood for swear words. This engineer is a fast runner and goes to junk the train along fast enough to keep out of his own way."

"Where do they get all these signals?" asked the curious passenger.

"Oh, they come from years of experience," said the old railroad man. "They are practically the same all over the country, although some roads have variations, just as railroad men have ex- hand signals that are not recognized by the roads, although the men themselves know them and use them right along. The engine whistle is not for more signals than the bell means simply brakes. It is a little signal, like 'is,' and he drew on a piece of paper short dash (-).

The paper seemed a good method of showing the relative length of the signals, so he continued using it. "Here they are in order," he said, passing it in inspection. "These are the signals: (-) Apply brakes.

(- -) Two long, release brakes.

(- - -) Five short, a signal to the flagman to go back to protect the rear of the train.

(- - - -) Four long, a signal for flagman to return from the west or south.

(- - - - -) Four long and one short whistle, a signal for flagman to return from the east or north.

"These signals are for the double track sections," he explained. "On the sections where there are four tracks the last two signals are preceded by a very long blast to bring in the flagman from tracks 3 and 4, the outside tracks, thus (- - - -) signal for flagman to return from the east or north.

(- - - - -) Three long whistles when the train is running call attention to the fact that the train has parted.

This signal is often used on freight trains, for passengers seldom part, and speeded until answered by the trainmen, either with hand or lamp signals, it happens in the daylight or the darkness.

(- -) Two short signals when running are an answer to any signal from the rear, except one on the parting of the train.

Two short and one long (- - -) are answer to a signal concerning anything ahead. They used to use the signal of two short ones, and there's a story in the reason for this change.

Two short whistles used to be the answer to any signal, whether from the rear or ahead. But one day when a passenger had to stop and send men and to the rear to flag an approaching train the man ahead saw a light coming down the track, which was a story in the reason for this change.

She shook her head. If you take a row to be true to one woman, you must be true in spirit and in letter. Otherwise—

The man's eyes blazed with sudden fire. "You are right, mademoiselle. There is but one safe way, and there are no lip-lips to it, but it is only through life that I can be true or false. Suppose I put life from me as a man throws aside the coat he has worn through life? Have you not noticed the trend of the world's thinking people? When you read your newspaper and pore here a death and there a death, does it mean nothing to you, this air destruction? We were not consulted when we were brought into life; why should we consult any one if we wish to go out of existence?

Jeanette gazed at him wide eyed, half fearing she knew not what.

"You mean—that I—do not understand"—she stammered.

"I retract one phrase," he went on, as if she had not spoken. "I said 'out of existence.' I mean out of this life into another, where our lost joys will come to us, where what we are here denied we may there press to our hearts."

"Reincarnation?" murmured Jeanette.

"Yes. See, dear, the tide is coming in. We have only to stay here, and this hateful life can bind us with no galling chains! Are you brave enough, my beautiful girl?"

The answer trembling upon her lips was never spoken. With a shriek she sprang up. Along the rocky road came galloping toward them a wild-eyed horse dragging at his heels a two-wheeled dump cart. Judging from the variegated odors rising heavenward the dump cart was not empty. As the count rose Jeanette seized his arm and dragged him over the low bluff. Here they were caught by a playful breaker, rolled off their feet and tossed gaily against the cliff.

"What made you do that?" spluttered the count angrily. "The horse would have nipped us a row away! Thunder! Look at that tremendous wave!"

"Hold your breath!" warned Jeanette. "Then you won't strangle."

The second performance wasn't quite so serious, though somewhat dampening. As the water receded Jeanette looked curiously at her companion. His voice sounded as if he had lost his temper along with his hat. His dripping garments and angry face were so different from his usual dapperness and urbanity. The sudden plunge from the oriental heroics to this absurd plight affected Jeanette's risibles. She choked with laughter till the third wave had taken its turn with them.

"You look so funny!" she gurgled, trying to extricate her countenance from clinging strings of wet hair.

"Well, you're a regular stage beauty!" he sneered. "How are we going to get out of this? I can't swim."

"Maybe in the next reincarnation you'll be a porpoise, and then you can," she giggled. "If you hurry, we can get up those steps before the next wave comes. There are generally three, and a little longer wait before the fourth. Really, count, I am sorry I was so foolish. The horse seemed to be fairly upon us, and I was too startled to know what I was about," she added humbly.

The count spoke not a word as he headed for the rude steps cut into the cliff. Jeanette missed his helping hand as she scrambled up alone and hurried after him. Fortunately there was a back way to the hotel, and the bedraggled pair reached cover unobserved.

"A glamour by the sea is one thing, and a glamour in the sea is another," the count observed as he scuttled up the back stairs.

And Jeanette, as she removed her ocean-laved garments, thought between smiles and tears of dear, patient Jim, waiting in a hot inland town—waiting anxiously her bidding—and when she was clothed her right mind had come back to her at the foot of the cliff! she sent a telegram:

"Jim, dear, come."

Her Age.

"And what is your age, madam?" was the attorney's question.

"My own," she answered promptly.

"I understand that, madam, but how old are you?"

"I am not old str," with indignation. "I beg your pardon, madam. I mean how many years have you passed."

"None. The years have passed me."

"How many of them have passed you?"

"All. I never heard of them stopping."

"Madam, you must answer my question. I want to know your age."

"I don't know that the acquaintance is desired by the other side."

"I don't see why you insist upon refusing to answer my question," said the attorney. "I'm sure I would tell how old I was if I were asked."

"But nobody would ask you, for everybody knows you are old enough to know better than to be asking a woman her age. So there!"

And the attorney passed on to the next question.

A Dark Horse.

It is generally supposed that the term "dark horse" is of American origin. But Thackeray used it in his "Adventures of Philip" before it became current in this country and in exactly the same sense as we employ it. "Well, bless my soul!" Philip is made to say, referring to some mysterious candidate for the house of commons. "He can't mean me. Who is the dark horse he has in his stable?"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Napoleon Before the Convention. When Barras introduced Napoleon to the convention as a fit man to be entrusted with the command the president asked:

"Are you willing to undertake the defense of the convention?"

"Yes," was the reply. After a time the president continued:

"Are you aware of the magnitude of the undertaking?"

"Perfectly," replied Napoleon, fixing his eyes upon his questioner, "and I am in the habit of accomplishing that which I undertake."

First Great Depression. "What, may I ask, was the keenest disappointment of your career?" asked the anxious interviewer.

The great financier stared cooly at the ink bottle. "It was when I was four years old, I think," he drawled. "When I woke up one morning and found my red balloon shrunken to one-fourth the size of the day before."

In Time of Peace. In the first months of the Russo-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those who, so to speak, "have shingled their roofs in dry weather."

The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared to successfully combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds and it should be kept at hand ready for instant use. For sale by all druggists.

Sydney Smith's Wit. "By Jove," said a country squire who had got the worst of an argument with Sydney Smith, "if I had a son who was a donkey I'd make a parson of him straight away."

"Possibly," returned the wit, "but your father was evidently of a different mind."

A TAILOR-MADE ON SMART LINES. The severely tailored two-piece suit, which has for several seasons past been somewhat in the background, its place having been taken by dressier modes, has this season come forward with all of its old popularity, and is being received most enthusiastically. This model shows a double-breasted, tight-fitting jacket of hip length, the collar and cuffs of which are inset with a golden brown velvet, the material being a brown and white broken check. The strapping on either side of the front covers a seam which extends from the middle of the shoulder line to the bottom of the jacket, this seam serving to give a more perfect fit. This same strapping appears in two rows on the bottom of the plain skirt, which is cut with a front panel and circular sides, and is strappings also trimming the seams of this panel. With such a costume is worn one of the many small and jaunty hats of this season, which in this instance is a plateau of gray French felt manipulated into toque shape and trimmed in a most novel fashion with ribbon and wings.

PAINFUL PERIODS

AMERICAN WOMEN FIND RELIEF

The Case of Miss Irene Crosby Is One of Thousands of Cures Made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that menstruation is the balance wheel of a woman's life, and while no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it is not the pain of death that women should suffer so severely.

Thousands of American women, however, have found relief from all monthly suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs menstruation of its terrors.

Miss Irene Crosby, of 313 Charlton Street East Savannah, Ga., writes: "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a true friend to women. It has been of great benefit to me, curing me of irregular and painful menstruation when everything else had failed, and I gladly recommend it to other suffering women."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further

MOONEY ASSETS

Will More Than Meet All Claims Against Him.

The appraisement and inventory taken in the holdings of Charles Mooney, the south Main street grocer, for whom his wife received a receiver in the person of Attorney W. J. McLaughlin, shows that the south Lima merchant has much greater assets than his liabilities will call for. The appraise was about $2,500 not including book accounts, and these will reach nearly $1,000, while all claims will not exceed. It is thought more than $1,500.

Will Be Held in the F. O. E. Hall This Evening at Seven-Thirty,

FOR THE NOMINATION

Of Candidates For Officers For Coming Year--Social Session.

The regular meeting of the local Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, to be held in the F. O. E. hall this evening, will be of unusual importance to the members of the order. Worthy President W. E. Reilly and Secretary Peter Laughlin have issued a call for a full attendance of the members of the lodge in which they call attention to the fact that this is the date for the nomination of candidates for the various offices in the Aerie and also the call that has been issued by Grand Worthy President H. D. Davis, for a state meeting of the order. A social session will follow the regular business session tonight.

The following communication from Grand Worthy President Davis to local Secretary Laughlin is self explanatory:

"Whereas, the Eagles in Ohio are desirous of meeting in convention for the purpose of selecting a state deputy grand president, and effecting the more complete organization of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Ohio, and

Whereas, a large number of Aeries in Ohio have petitioned the grand worthy president for a convention of all Aeries in Ohio.

Therefore, by authority and power vested in me, it is ordered that the Aeries of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Ohio meet in convention at Dayton, O., on Wednesday, January 18th, 1906, a. m. for the purpose of recommending a state deputy grand president and for the transaction of such other business as may come before said convention. Each Aerie will be entitled to one representative for each one hundred (100) members or major part thereof on the rolls of said Aerie on December 31st, 1905. Any Aerie failing to send at least one representative to said convention, shall not be entitled to be represented by proxy. It is requested that a full representation of the Aeries in Ohio be present at said convention.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1905.

HY. D. DAVIS, Grand Worthy President, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

SAFE ROBBED.

Checks and Cash Taken From I. N. Pangle's Office.

Some time Saturday evening, after I. N. Pangle, the well known liverrman, had paid his several employees for their week's work, he stepped into a nearby business house to get some change and while absent some one rifled the contents of his safe which was left unlocked and extracted therefrom the sum of twelve dollars in cash and forty dollars worth of checks. There is no clue to the identity of the perpetrator of the robbery.

SILENT SLEEP

Of Death Invades a Happy Lima Home

Mrs. Lenore Evans-Crumrine Passed to Rest This Morning.

THE FATAL ILLNESS

Originated With a Cold, Contracted Early in the Fall.

Funeral Will Be Held From a Local Church Thursday Afternoon.

At 6 o'clock this morning, the home of L. L. Crumrine, on north Metcalf street, was saddened by the death of his beloved wife, Lenore Evans-Crumrine, who passed away at that hour, leaving the husband and a bright little daughter to mourn an irreparable loss. The loss is also one that is felt in scores of other homes and hearts in Lima for Mrs. Crumrine was one of the city's most talented young women and had won the respect and esteem of all who knew her. The fatal illness of Mrs. Crumrine began early last fall when she contracted a heavy cold. Her illness became complicated with other ailments, but not until about ten days ago did her condition become serious, and after that time all of the careful nursing and medical attention she received was unavailing. She gradually lost strength until the angel of death relieved her of her sufferings this morning.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Evans, respected and prominent residents of the village of Gomer. She was married to Mr. Crumrine nine years ago the 21st of last month and to them was born one child, a daughter, Wilma, now six years of age, who, together with the bereaved husband, survives her. Mrs. Crumrine was an eloquentist of rare talent and ability and during the past twelve years she has delighted many audiences in Lima and elsewhere. She never tired of doing good and was found assisting church or lodge workers in a good cause. She was an active member of the First Congregational church of this city and will be missed from the congregation of that church.

The funeral will be held from the Congregational church at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon and the remains will be consigned to a resting place in Woodlawn cemetery. The services will be conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. L. J. Swanson, who will be assisted by the Rev. Mr. Thomas of this city and the Rev. Mr. Roberts, of Gomer.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Lima and Celina Football Teams Will Meet at Wapakoneta.

THE GAME AT CELINA

Terminated With Score Tied Each Team Making One Touchdown.

At Wapakoneta, on the afternoon of Thursday, Thanksgiving day, there will be a battle royal on the gridiron between the Lima and Celina football teams. The game is to be played on neutral ground and the stakes are to be the entire gate receipts which will be carried off by the winning team.

These two teams played a tie game, with a score of five to five, on the grounds at Celina, Sunday, and the Lima boys claim they did not receive fair treatment at the hands of the spectators. They scored a touchdown during the first three minutes of play and from that time on until the close of the second half they were constantly handicapped by the crowd of spectators whenever Lima had possession of the ball. The crowd would crowd upon the field and would surround the players and interfere with every attempted end run until three downs would give Celina possession of the ball and then the field would immediately be cleared and the Celina players would be given all the room the field afforded in order to reach Lima's goal. These tactics continued throughout the game and in spite of them the Lima boys held the catch down to one touchdown and the game ended with a score a tie.

Thursday's game will be called promptly at 3:30 o'clock and the members of the Lima team hope to see a good crowd of Lima routers on the side lines of the gridiron.

Spirit of the Fenner Studio

Demonstrated Through Electric Photography at Night.

SUN NOT NECESSARY.

Strong Arc Lamps Used in Their High Class Portrait Work

Which Enables Them to Make Just as Good Negatives at Night as by Day.

It is an old but true saying that "There is always something new under the sun." In photography this maxim has been gone one better in altering it to: something new under the moon, for the sun no longer exists in photography.

The time was when photographic negatives could only be successfully made on the brightest of sunny days, and likewise the printing of the proofs could only be done when Old Sol was smiling his best.

That is all changed now, and in daylight or the darkest of nights, no matter which, the Fenner Brothers' studio in the Phoenix, Main and High streets, is able to make the very best of negatives and to print from them in the very best manner.

For more than a year they have had in operation a large electric printing machine, capable of turning out hundreds of photographic prints in better style than dozens could be printed in the old way in the same length of time. This device has assisted them greatly in handling their large and ever increasing patronage, but they were still handicapped by weather conditions and short days in their negative making. Late mornings, early evenings and cloudy or hazy days had their effect and the printing machine easily kept pace and ahead of the negative maker.

Consequently another step forward became necessary and this has been taken by the installation of a new device for negative making. It comprises a powerful electric lamp with the proper reflectors and appliances for adapting it to the work required of it, and the result has been such as to more than exceed the best expectations of the Fenner Bros' studio.

As a result of the installation of this machine, the cloudy day, the short day, the early evening, the late morning, and all those things which have heretofore interfered to prevent this popular studio from keeping pace with its printing department have been eliminated, and night has been turned into brightest day.

Hereafter they can make you just as good a picture from a negative taken at night as though you "sat" in the brightest sunlight. This is an innovation, too, which will be appreciated by many who cannot well leave their work to visit a studio during the hours of daylight. They can make an engagement and go in the evening.

And this brings to mind that the holidays are fast approaching. There is no better, more appropriate or more greatly appreciated Christmas present in many instances than an elegant photograph. The Fenner Bros' studio has a reputation for turning out only the best, while their prices are very moderate.

One very pleasing feature of arct light photography is that women wanting portraits taken in their evening or reception gowns need not be inconvenienced as is many times the case by having to first wait for a clear day and then carry a suit case containing the party dress, down to the studio. They can stop in at the Fenner studio on their way to a reception or the theatre and be already gowned for a sitting without the slightest inconvenience or trouble.

Such an innovation is surely metropolitan enough to be appreciated by the great number of Lima people who fully realize the value of high grade portrait work.

These features should not be overlooked when Christmas portraits are in your mind.

VISITED PASTOR And Gave Him and His Wife a Pleasing Shower.

Rev. L. J. Swanson, pastor of the First Congregational church, and Mrs. Swanson, were surprised in a most pleasing manner by quite a large number of their parishioners last evening when the latter called unexpectedly at their home, 1025 west Spring street, and gave them a Thanksgiving shower, in the form of a varied selection of handsome and valuable gifts. Dr. Abner Jones of Lima, master of ceremonies and chairman of the committee, presented the evening was punctuated with music and addresses and a general good time was enjoyed by all.
